Background

- Methods for Community Voices: Recommendations to State Policymakers for Advancing Health Equity:
 - Structured interviews with leaders from 50 state- and community based nonprofit organizations
 - Literature review
- We asked:
 - What are the top equity issues impacting communities of color in America?
 - What are possible solutions to address those issues within health policy?

Community Voices

“People writing the policy are so far removed from the needs of those facing inequity.”

“...we have seen shortages of service providers across the Indian Health Service and tribal and urban Indian Health organizations that have left people without timely care”

“A lot of people who do the health care work have anti-Blackness built into them. It’s the culture.”

“The last administration caused a lot of stress and many [immigrants] do not want to visit the clinic or apply for public benefits.”

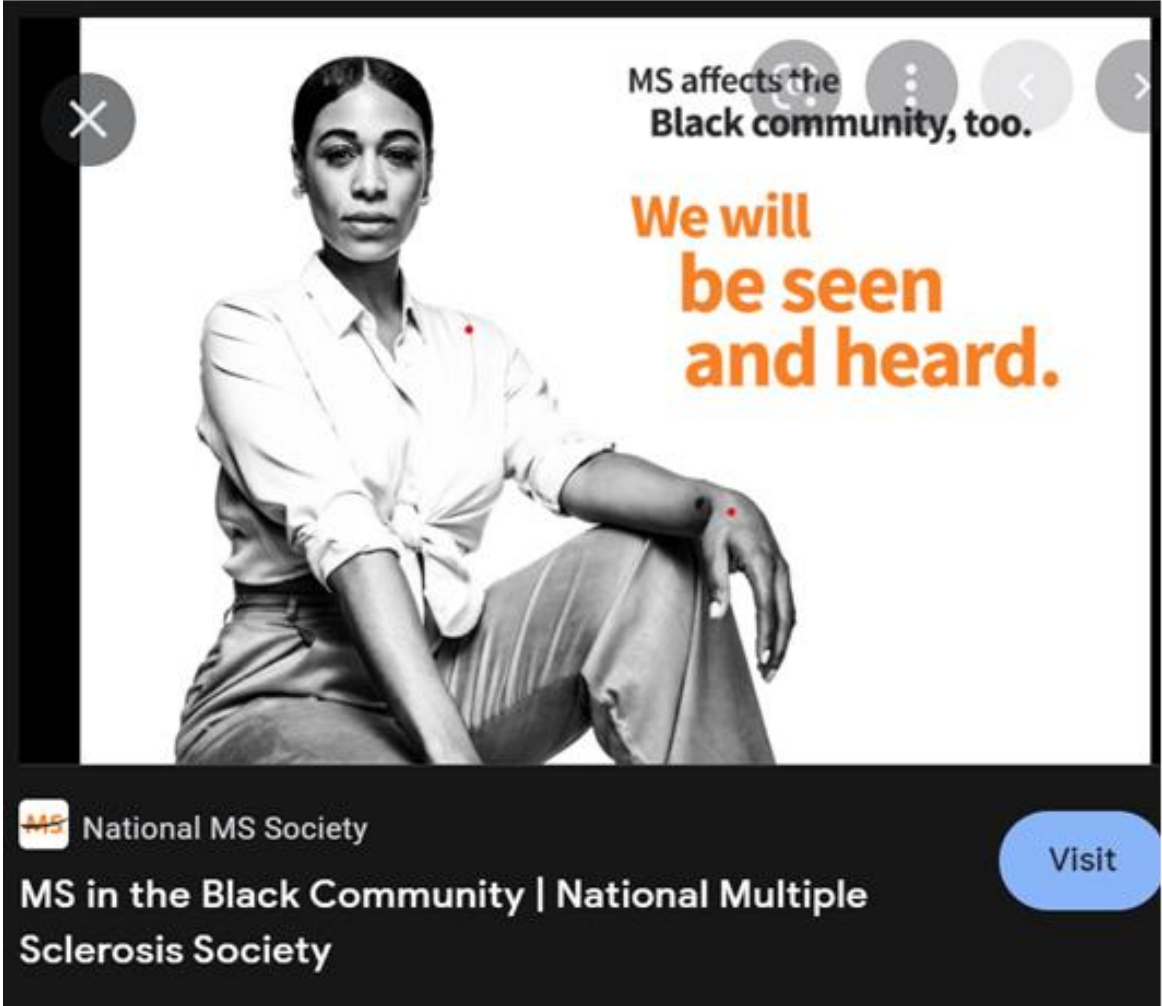

“People lost loved ones who seemed healthy days before. Loved ones were ill and passed without anyone being there to comfort them.”

“Kids have no access to inpatient mental health care because these facilities aren’t equipped to handle these kids, and they are coming out worse than how they went in.”

Key Themes

- 1. Equip community organizations to work for equity.
- 2. Mobilize to fight racism and bias.
- 3. Address disparities through research and measurement.
- 4. Provide equitable access to coverage.
- 5. Provide equitable access to care.
- 6. Implement and expand culturally competent behavioral health care.
- 7. End inequities generated by health systems that have ramifications beyond health.

Mobilize to fight racism and bias: Be proactive in efforts to combat racial myths that undermine health care.

MS affects the Black community, too.

We will be seen and heard.

Theme: Mobilize to Fight Racism and Bias:

States should fully integrate community health workers (CHWs) into care teams

Gabriella Barbosa, The Children's Partnership

Child Health Equity

All children—regardless of their race, ethnicity or place of birth—should have the resources and opportunities they need to grow up healthy and thrive

Policy Brief Key Takeaways & Recommendations

- CHW/Ps play a critical role in protecting and improving the health of children, and provide various services and care that support their physical, mental, and social-emotional health.
- CBOs are an integral component of the CHW/P workforce and integration into children's primary care.
- All children and families enrolled in Medi-Cal should have access to a range of CHW/P services across various social, emotional, physical and mental health issues.

CHW SPA Draft Language

Incorporation of child-focused language –

- Definition - Broad definition of individuals who can be served by the new benefit
- Supervision - Supervision includes community-based organizations
- Child-focused services - Language includes services specific to child health and development
- Services can be provided anywhere - Services can be provided outside of clinical setting – schools, homes, early learning and care spaces
- Includes a wide range of services for children and families- including accessing the health care system, connecting to community resources, creating care plans, conducting screenings, helping enroll in government programs, and providing individual support and advocacy.

- CHW Preventive Services SPA Provider Manual
- CHW training and recruitment stakeholder workgroup
- current $350 million General Fund budget allocation in this year's budget to recruit, train, and certify 25,000 new community health workers by 2025 in areas such as climate health, homelessness, and dementia - missing child health and development
- Future legislation focused on CHWs & children's primary care

Theme 4: Provide Equitable Access to Coverage – WA victory
Lee Che Leong, NOHLA

WA's Health Equity for Immigrants Campaign

Multi-year campaign of community leaders, health care providers and advocates who have come together to work to improve access to affordable health care and coverage for all Washingtonians.

Guided by a community-informed approach, we prioritize equitable access for individuals who are uninsured and underinsured due to immigration status restrictions.

Apply for the Next Health Equity Academy

- Goal of the fellowship: Cultivate a group of advocates from across the country who are equipped to pursue policy advocacy on health equity at the state, community and/or federal level over a year-long period.
- Upcoming Academy will focus on advocacy strategies to advance policies focused on the following themes from this report:
 - Diversifying the health care workforce
 - Expanding access to culturally competent behavioral health care.
- Structure:
 - Two virtual half-day trainings on June 28-29.
 - Monthly calls to maintain relationships, discuss strategies for pursuing policy advocacy on health equity in your state/community, and learn and share from one another.
- Applications are due June 2. Apply Here.

AAPI Heritage Month Webinar

A Conversation with AAPI Health Advocates

Tuesday, May 24, 1PM EST

In recognition of Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) Heritage Month, Families USA will host a virtual roundtable inviting AAPI leaders to share their thoughts and have an open dialogue about an array of health-related topics that affect the AAPI community, including access to health services, mental health and health policy advocacy. Attendees will have an opportunity to hear from influential leaders at the local, state, and national levels who work daily to address the ongoing challenges and stigmas faced within the AAPI community. Speakers will also share resources and reflect on the strong sense of leadership, resilience and courage shown within AAPI communities, particularly during the spike in hostility towards Asian Americans with the COVID-19 pandemic.
